As a busy mom juggling career and family, Beth needed a child care provider to whom she could trust her young daughter. She had previously had poor experiences with directors, and overall, she was disappointed in not finding a strong educational component in the programs she had looked into. That is, until she came to YMCA Southeast Child Development Center.

"But when I visited the Southeast preschool, I finally felt I had found the right place and the right people for my baby."

Beth praises Kimberly Keeton, YMCA Southeast Child Development Center Director, and credits the staff with providing a structured environment conducive to learning and "being on top of things."

"Abby has really learned a lot in the short time she has been there," Beth said. "I know she likes her teacher because this morning, as soon as we arrived, she ran to her teacher to give her a hug."

Like any concerned mother would do, Beth called to check on her daughter the first few days she was in Y preschool. She wanted to be assured that Abby was settling in.

"When I called the school, I was very impressed by how much Ms. Keeton knew about Abby's day," Beth said.

"I know when I drop my child off each morning that she is being loved and cared for, and that means the world to me."
